ANOTHER CRUIS'N OKLAHOMA CAR SHOW IN THE BOOKS

by Angela Bruner

The weather was perfect and the streets were buzzing with the roar of engines. Attendees enjoyed delicious food from local restaurants, while kids had a blast with bouncy houses, train rides and pine derby car races. Vendors set up shop at Memorial Park, adding to the lively atmosphere. Car owners proudly showcased their vehicles and shared stories with visitors.

This event is a big win for Hennessey, boosting our local economy. The Cruis'n Oklahoma car club cruised into town around noon, filling Main Street with a colorful display of cars. If you missed it this year, mark your calendar for next year's event. The organizers are already planning some exciting additions!

CONGRATS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 2024

by Angela Bruner

The Hennessey High School Class of 2024 said goodbye to their high school days at a graduation ceremony last Friday. The student leaders, led by Tucker Goff, celebrated their achievements and shared their future hopes. The class officers, including Kason Copeland and Kimber Smith, represented their peers.

The class chose blue plumbago as their flower and navy and silver as their colors, symbolizing their unity. Their motto, "Four years we'll never forget, even if we did some things we may regret," captured their high school experience.

Guided by their sponsors, the students pursued their studies and activities with passion. The Junior Class Escorts provided support and friendship, while the administration fostered their growth.

The ceremony acknowledged outstanding achievements and honored faculty members. Valedictorians and Honor Program graduates were commended for their hard work. Special speakers and Hall of Fame Inductees, Dr. Jack Collier and Mr. Hazen Marshall inspired the graduates with wisdom and achievements.

The night ended with diploma presentations and joyful celebrations. As the Class of 2024 moves forward, they bring with them lessons, friendships, and dreams from their time at Hennessey High. Congratulations to the Class of 2024!

Dr. V. Ray Cordry: A Life of Study and Help

By Sara Jane Richter, Ph. D.

Innovation, dedication, preparation, and experience combine to create the perfect individual to serve as a physician, and that description certainly fits Dr. V. Ray Cordry, a Hennessey native. He graduated from Phillips University in Enid, Oklahoma, in 1969. Recalling that he never wished to pursue any career other than medicine, Dr. Cordry completed his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine from the Kansas City University of Medicine and Biosciences College of Osteopathic Medicine in 1975. He then finished his residency in primary care and emergency room medicine. He also includes rural medical care in his resume of abilities and certifications. Dr. Cordry's legacy in medicine is cemented by his being named Doctor of the Year for 2024 by the Oklahoma Osteopathic Association.

Happily serving his patients, he noted an underserved arena of medicine. He saw a need for a fine doctor to work in psychiatry, so he studied and took a residency in child psychiatry at the University of Kansas School of Medicine in Wichita and received a fellowship at the University of Oklahoma Health Science Center in Oklahoma City. However, he determined that he could fill yet another need when he realized that mental health care sorely lacking in Oklahoma, and he sought to correct that oversight, which still plagues the state today. For example, nearly 300,000 Oklahomans in the western portion of the state from I-40 to I-35 have no access to real mental health help. Rural mental health issues have become a very real sub-genre of the behavioral health field.

He established professional offices in locations such as Alva, Kingfisher, Enid, Ardmore, Chickasha, Elk City, Watonga, and Lawton to work with patients who would have had to travel great distances to seek professional mental health care. Throughout his career, Cordry found that his biggest challenge involved providing enough mental health care to Oklahomans, and he says that the parity of mental health availability in the state continues to be woefully inadequate. The most rewarding portion of his position is witnessing patients receive the care they need to improve their mental health and lives. Cordry believes that the greatest strides in mental health care have come in the development of medications to help those with psychiatric issues. He anticipates that the applications, numbers, and types of medications will only increase with further research and funding, making behavioral health care more accessible to more people across the state. To set the tenor of the times, Cordry also became the first psychiatrist to offer telehealth medical appointments in Oklahoma.

Currently, Cordry works as the Outpatient Director of Red Rock Behavioral Health Services in Oklahoma City. Red Rock serves approximately 5,000 patients and employs nearly 1,000 physicians, support personnel, and nurses, mostly schooled specifically for mental health issues. Throughout his career, he has answered the call to serve in several medical fields, such as teaching psychiatry classes, directing behavioral health organizations and clinics, and teaching medicine to osteopathic and allopathic students. He worked as director of the Meadowlake Hospital in Enid in the late 1980s and as the children's unit's director and also became an associate professor of psychiatry at the College of Osteopathic Medicine at Oklahoma State University.

Cordry has had a tremendously successful professional life, but he enjoys some downtime when he can squeeze it into his busy schedule. He enjoys spending time with his wife, five children, and four grandchildren. Yard work makes him particularly happy, and he takes great pride in his pristine lawns. He thinks that perhaps retirement is in the future—perhaps a year or even two years from now. It's hard to put the stethoscope away when it's been a part of your life and uniform every day for nearly 50 years. Dr. Cordry can comfortably rest on his laurels for serving the State of Oklahoma and helping bring healing, calm, and peace to hundreds of lives. Hennessey can be very proud of a native son who seemingly never rests and always sets high standards for health care, for himself, and, most importantly, for his patients.

Rachel Buford: Empowering Rural Communities through Healthcare

by Amy Smith

Rachel Buford is a determined individual whose educational and career journey is remarkable. In 2016, she earned a Bachelor's degree in human development and Family Sciences with a focus on social work from Oklahoma State University. The following year, she achieved a Master of Public Health specializing in Rural and Underserved Populations from the same university. Rachel's educational journey culminated in 2024 when she obtained a Doctor of Healthcare Administration from Oklahoma State University.

Embarking on her doctoral journey, she was reminded of the importance of knowing her 'why'. Her drive originated from the desire to inspire young women who saw her as a role model. This motivation had been ingrained in her during her high school days of leading mini cheer camps and cheering on Friday nights, and it continued to fuel her pursuit of a doctoral degree. It was also for the little girl she once was at Hennessey Elementary, unaware of her own potential. Despite facing obstacles and uncertainties, she aimed to convey to her and others like her that with unwavering commitment, they could surpass expectations and attain remarkable achievements.

Her path was deeply influenced by her experiences growing up alongside her mother, who battled a terminal illness. Spending significant time at the Kansas University Cancer Center, she found joy in the moments the nurses brought into a challenging period. These experiences initially led her to dream of becoming an oncologist, but a pivotal moment in 9th grade biology steered her away from pursuing a career in science. Nevertheless, the significance of healthcare, particularly in rural areas like Okeene and Fairview, was not lost on her. Throughout her education journey, she observed a disproportionate focus on urban issues, neglecting the equally critical needs of rural communities. Families in rural areas grappled with food insecurity, struggled to afford utilities, and lacked access to adequate healthcare. Her roots in the rural community instilled in her a deep-seated love and commitment. While she may not have immediately known her path, she was certain that she would find a way to contribute to healthcare and serve the needs of her rural upbringing.

In her role as a Population Health Associate at Vytalize Health, she is deeply involved in sustaining the operations of Critical Access Hospitals (CAHs), Rural Health Centers (RHCs), and Federally Qualified Health Centers (FQHCs) within the framework of value-based care. Collaborating closely with a diverse range of healthcare providers, including CAHs, RHCs, and FQHCs, her work involves implementing strategies aimed at achieving the goals of value-based care. By embracing proactive population health management techniques and fostering robust partnerships with local community stakeholders, she empowered these healthcare facilities to continue fulfilling their crucial role in serving rural populations. Through her concerted efforts, she not only strove to improve the quality of care delivered but also ensured the financial sustainability of these vital healthcare institutions.

Throughout Rachel's academic pursuits, she never forgot the unwavering support and love of her family and extended loved ones. Their encouragement was the cornerstone of her success. Her journey was profoundly influenced by her mother in heaven, dad, stepmother, five sisters, nieces, nephews, and all of the "bonus" family she has. Their presence was a guiding light, shaping her resilience through life's trials. She holds immense gratitude to the communities of Olathe Public School, Hennessey Public Schools, and Oklahoma State University, where exceptional educators imparted wisdom and grace. Every milestone she achieved was a gift from God, as she believed He had turned the trials into triumphs for His greater glory.

Taggart's

Hennessey has the good fortune to have their very own garden center. Taggart's is a well-rounded garden center. Supplying all your garden and flower bed needs! From garden plants to pretty potted flowers. They provide already styled pots of a variety of flowers OR all of the "ingredients" you need to make your own flower pot arrangements if you're a DIY-er.

Taggart's Garden Center has more than plants, though. For example, do you like to watch hummingbirds? Then you NEED to see the amount of hummingbird feeders that they have! There are so many to choose from! Recently, we found out that they even have some books. Truly full service in our small town. Do you need garden/potting soil? They have that, too. If you're not sure what you need, just ask. They are very knowledgeable and will guide you in the right direction.

Oh! Go check out their Koi fish while you're there, as well. This is always a favorite spot for the kids while mom and dad shop. If you're like us (and our dad!), then you will likely completely lose your mind and your budget while in there...but you'll get some great plants! Taggart's Garden Center. Go check them out, it's the perfect time to give them a try.

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL BUG

When you have the entrepreneurial bug, you have an itch for something greater, a new adventure, something to work towards for you and your family. THE NEAT FREAK | K&B AUTO DETAILING

Jeffrey Williams is a prime example of honor, respect, and integrity. Jeffrey, owner of K&B Auto Detailing in Kingfisher, has been detailing vehicles for 5 years, but it was just in the last 2 years that he made his company K&B Auto Detailing LLC. He takes in vehicles on the weekends by appointment bringing them back to a clean and sparkling state. Now let's meet the Williams: Jeffrey, and his wife Lisa love calling Kingfisher home. Lisa, born and raised in Kingfisher works at Gilmour Elementary as an assistant teacher. Through the week Jeffrey works full-time at Tony's Pump.

Williams currently serves the National Guard and reports one weekend a month for duty. Jeffrey and Lisa are raising their 2 children, Bentley 13, and Khloie, 9 and if you happen to notice, it's the children's initials K and B that Jeffrey used in naming his business. This idea came from his mom as she always said if she were lucky enough to own a business she would name it after her children. Jeffrey says "I've always been a neat freak" its because of that his friends growing up gave him a hard time, teasing him on how clean he kept his room and vehicle. Jeffrey explains why he is such a neat freak stating, "When you keep things neat and organized you are always going to know right where things are."

When choosing K&B Auto Detailing you will not only be getting a vehicle that has been transformed from dirty to clean, but you will be treated with respect. Jeffrey takes pride in each job he is given and encourages feedback from his customers as it will only allow him to improve his work. He is a family man and only takes vehicles to detail on weekends as he leaves the weekdays for family time. Often you will find Bentley working alongside his dad learning how to get cars squeaky clean. To book an appointment to get your vehicle back to clean, give K&B Auto Detailing a call or text at 405-974-8721, but don't just take our word for it check out his Facebook page @K&BAutoDetailingLLC for some before and after pictures.
