CEMETERY EXPANSION PROJECT UNDERWAY

During the March 13, 2025, Town Trustees Meeting, the Board approved a cemetery expansion project to accommodate future burial needs as the current space nears capacity. The Board awarded an $8,200 contract to Gladiator Construction to begin leveling and grading the newly acquired land.

In December 2019, Scott Hajek and the Town reached an agreement. Scott traded the five acres of land he owned, which adjoins the north side of Hennessey Cemetery, for the mineral rights beneath the ten acres of existing cemetery land owned by the Town. This was an even trade, and no money was exchanged.

The project will include drainage improvements, grass planting, and plot mapping to ensure the space is well-organized and maintained. Additionally, town officials are researching drought-resistant grass options to keep maintenance costs low while preserving a respectful environment. Future steps include surveying for burial plots and planning road access within the expansion. Photo AAN AirCam

HENNESSEY BOARD REVIEWS COUNTY YARD EXPANSION REQUEST

At the March 13, 2025, Hennessey Board of Trustees meeting, County Commissioner Mike Sparks proposed an expansion of the county yard to allow for additional storage space for road maintenance materials. The request comes as the county seeks to stockpile gravel, rock, and other supplies to ensure quicker response times for road repairs and emergency maintenance.

The land that Sparks is interested in is located west of the current County yard at the intersection of Oklahoma and Arapaho St. This land, owned by the Town of Hennessey, was the former dump site at the corner of Oklahoma and Cemetery Rd.

The board expressed support for the proposal and agreed to work with the county to determine how much land could be allocated for the expansion. Discussions will also include potential impacts on nearby properties and town infrastructure, including the possibility of using part of the expanded area for additional rodeo parking.

Officials emphasized the importance of collaboration between the county and town, ensuring that both maintenance needs and community event space are properly addressed. A final agreement is expected to be discussed at a future board meeting. photo AAN AirCam

HENNESSEY FIRE DEPARTMENT ASSIST GEARY PUBLIC SCHOOL FIRE

On Saturday night, March 22, 2025, the old gym next to Geary High School caught fire. A deputy noticed the flames just before 10 p.m. and quickly called for backup. Several fire departments, including Hennessey's, rushed in to help. Thankfully, they kept the fire mostly contained to the gym, but it did manage to spread a bit into the high school itself, damaging some bathrooms, a janitor's closet, and a classroom wall. Right now, nobody knows exactly what caused the fire.

The firefighters worked incredibly hard through the night. Blaine County Emergency Management Director Jim Shelton said they did an awesome job keeping things under control. Unfortunately, even with their quick response, some classrooms had smoke and water damage. The community took it hard, especially former students, who shared their sadness at seeing their old school in flames. Geary Superintendent Sean Buchanan said there wouldn't be school on-site Monday, but they're working hard to get students back in class later in the week.

Hennessey firefighters Brandon Scott, Levi Copeland, Matthew Bruner, and Luis Lara were part of the team that responded. The initial call was for tanker trucks, but on their way, it shifted to a need for more manpower. When they got there, the main fire was mostly knocked down, but there was still plenty to do. The team relieved another crew and focused on putting out remaining flames and hot spots, making sure the fire didn't spread further. They stayed until about 7:45 a.m., helping pack up equipment before heading home. Back at the station, they cleaned their gear carefully to remove harmful substances and ensure they were ready for the next call.

FIRE'S FURY

HENNESSEY, OK – Hennessey firefighters faced a fiery challenge Wednesday, March 19th, as they raced to contain a rapidly spreading grass fire. Fueled by strong northwest winds gusting over 40 mph and swirling sand, the blaze erupted near 16491 E. 650 Rd. (Exxon Rd.), right in front of Sooner Solid Solutions, around 5 p.m.

The Hennessey Fire Department deployed three brush trucks, a tanker, and a command unit to the scene. Thanks to their swift response and firefighting skills, the crew managed to tame the flames before any significant damage occurred. Thankfully, no injuries or property damage were reported. COMMITMENT TO AGRICULTURE

by AAH Amy Smith

The Bison Cooperative Association has a rich history that dates back to September 1905, just two years before our state was formed. It all started when Frank J. Havlik and Alois Trojan teamed up to create the Bison Mercantile Company. In those early days, they offered a wide variety of products, including groceries, hardware, furniture, and even tractors and machinery from Heider and John Deere. At one point, they even sold Maxwell and Studebaker cars!

Fast forwarding to 1920, the Bison Farmers Elevator was established, which was a big step in supporting local agriculture. The name was changed to the Bison Cooperative Association in 1963, reflecting its stronger ties to the farming community. Today, the cooperative has impressive grain storage capabilities, with the ability to store 575,000 bushels of grain and receive up to 32,000 bushels per hour.

What makes Bison Cooperative special is its commitment to its customers. Beyond grain handling, the cooperative offers a wide range of products essential for farmers. They offer a variety of products including dry and liquid fertilizers, crop protection chemicals, feed, seed, fuel, tires, oil changes, fence posts, and more. Additionally, they provide custom application services for dry and liquid fertilizers as well as crop protection chemicals. Bison Cooperative Association is more than just a business; it's a vital part of Bison and surrounding communities. With its deep history and focus on supporting local farmers, it remains a trusted partner in agriculture. Bison COOP is located at 105 S. 1st Street, Bison OK 73720 Photos by AAH Amy Smith

Deeply invested in the community, David's children graduated from Hennessey High School, underscoring the town's significance as their family home. Currently serving as a Town Trustee, David is seeking re-election with a commitment to positively representing the citizens of Hennessey. His primary agenda is ensuring transparent representation and community engagement, promising to value and prioritize citizens' viewpoints over his own. Dedicated to improving town infrastructure, advocating responsible financial spending, and bolstering support for town employees, he is particularly focused on enhancing public safety by advocating for critical investments in local firefighting facilities and equipment. At 22, she's dedicated to making Hennessey a safer, more inclusive, and more vibrant place for all—especially the younger generation and the Hispanic community. Evelyn wants to break down language barriers, increase youth involvement, and promote economic growth by fostering stronger connections with surrounding towns. With a heart for service, a love for people, and a commitment to community-wide engagement, she believes that positive change is possible—and that age should never be a barrier to leadership. With a background in finance, compliance, and board leadership, Frank currently works as a safety and compliance manager for Oklahoma Ag, High Pressure Transports, and 46 Ag. He has three daughters and five grandchildren and is the brother of local resident Lisa Weaver.

Frank previously ran for office and feels compelled to follow through on that commitment after a vacancy opened on the board. He's concerned about the lack of openness in town decisions and wants to limit the use of executive sessions, encouraging more public input on local issues. He believes in responsible spending, prioritizing infrastructure improvements like water and sewer lines, and restoring a sense of unity and celebration in Hennessey. Frank is committed to voting based on what's best for the town—not politics or personal alliances—and encourages all eligible voters to have their say on April 1st.

Having spent his entire life in Hennessey, Harold cares deeply about the community, which led him to serve four years on the town board, where he gained valuable insights and became actively involved with Hennessey United, notably helping develop the local pavilion. While he openly asks challenging questions during board meetings, Harold emphasizes that he has no personal agenda other than fostering transparency and community involvement. He takes pride in sparking increased interest and engagement among residents and intends to remain active in town affairs regardless of election outcomes, firmly believing that a diversity of opinions ultimately strengthens the community.

John Peach

John Peach, a lifelong member of the Hennessey community and a resident for the past six years, is running for town board with a focus on stability, teamwork, and keeping Hennessey on the right track. A farmer from east of town, John has always considered Hennessey his hometown and is committed to preserving its friendly, welcoming spirit. With 10 years of experience on the school board and over 40 years on the Bison Co-op board, he understands the value of collaboration and effective leadership. John believes in maintaining essential services like streets, water, and sewer, and supports the current structure of town governance that allows for coordinated direction rather than fragmented leadership. His goal is simple: keep Hennessey a great place to live and work, and ensure that decisions are made with the town's best interests at heart.

Miguel Hernandez

Miguel Hernandez has lived in Hennessey for 19 years, moving here during middle school and never looking back. He and his wife Karen are proud parents of three daughters. Miguel works as a transportation manager for a manufacturing company in Enid and also runs a small auto detailing business in town. He's running for town trustee to be a voice for the people and help strengthen the community through better communication and practical improvements. His priorities include upgrading water lines, sewage systems, roads, and enhancing parks and the library to support more family activities. Miguel hopes to bring a younger, fresh perspective to the board and is committed to helping Hennessey grow and thrive.

Tim Riddle

Tim Riddle is a lifelong resident of Hennessey, Oklahoma, with deep generational roots in the community—his grandmother graduated from Hennessey High School in the early 1900s, and both of his children attended school here. A 1979 HHS graduate and 1984 Oklahoma State University alumnus with a degree in agricultural economics, Tim has served as branch manager and vice president of Community State Bank for the past 26 years. His extensive community involvement includes serving on the town board from 1997 to 2003 (including as mayor during the 2001 ice storm), 25 years on the volunteer fire department, and decades of service with groups like the Hennessey Lions Club, Hennessey Educational Foundation, and more. He's running for office to help continue Hennessey's growth, focusing on infrastructure and housing as top priorities, and supporting efforts to secure funding for needed improvements. Tim is also passionate about promoting the town's excellent facilities—such as the Eagle Event Center, parks, and sports venues—which bring visitors and economic activity to the area. He values the strong partnership between the town and school and wants to see more events, like go-kart races and car shows, that engage the community and attract people to Hennessey. With over 40 years of dedicated service, Tim believes it's time to move forward, leave negativity behind, and build on what makes Hennessey a great place to live, work, and raise a family.

YOUR HOMETOWN BREADDY CROCKER

Hi. I'm Summer. You may have seen my new Facebook account recently and wondered if it was real. It is! I have had my sourdough starter (Mable) since 2020 and recently decided that I enjoyed baking sourdough enough to offer some for sale. I'm a nurse by trade and I do work full time, so I post on my Breaddy Crocker Facebook page when I have loaves available. I only bake small-batch artisan loaves so they don't seem to last long. But I do bake weekly, every chance I get.

I started my sourdough journey back in 2020 by watching YouTube videos created by Farmhouse on Boone. She is a stay at home mom in Missouri who makes all of her family's food from scratch. She is an inspiration to me and I followed her instructions on making my own sourdough starter. For the first couple of years I stuck to very easy sourdough things such as pancakes and English muffins and cinnamon rolls. It wasn't until this year that I felt like I truly mastered an artisan loaf. Then I figured out what I feel like makes a loaf stay softer and fresher longer. Olive oil and honey. I share videos of my process on our OKSeasonedsisters TikTok, Instagram and my Breaddy Crocker Facebook page. I share recipes and tips on sourdough as well as post what loaves I have available for purchase.

If you're wondering what the big deal is with sourdough, first of all, give it a try. The flavor and texture of sourdough is unique and so delicious. The fermentation time that sourdough needs helps to break down gluten and for this reason, those who have a gluten sensitivity seem to be able to tolerate sourdough in moderation. This same fermentation process helps sourdough be more glycemic stable. This means that sourdough doesn't spike your blood sugar like a typical loaf of store-bought bread. For me, I love the handling of the dough. It's so satisfying to watch flour, water, salt, olive oil, honey, and a little malted barley flour go from being a mess of ingredients in a bowl to a smooth mass of dough, ready to shape and bake. Can't forget to mention the fun loaves! Double chocolate, chocolate chip, s'mores...these are some examples of specialty loaves that are such a treat. I hope you give them a try! You might just discover that you're a sourdough lover after all. Summer Your Hometown Breaddy Crocker

Honoring Ashes: Memorial Options

As cremation is becoming a more common choice for burial, there are many options for cremation burial, such as just burying them or keeping an urn of ashes at home. Cremation benches are becoming an ever-popular choice. Cremains are sealed within the bench. Benches are a great option for some who frequently visit the cemetery, offering a place of reflection and rest. They can be designed with the same ideas, designs, and personal touches that are commonly found on a monument stone, and prices are comparable. At Nicholson Monument, we don't charge for engraving unless laser etching is desired, and we also don't charge for setting your stone. It's not necessary to nickel and dime a grieving family, and we make your final plans for a loved one's resting place easy and with care and concern for your wishes of the memorial you'll be proud of. Stop by The 409 Center in Hennessey and visit with Kelly about your memorial. Appointments are preferred by calling 405-368-3443.

STAY SAFE WITH JORDAN AIR: AWARENESS AROUND CROP PLANES

Watching planes fly high in the sky is always a fascinating sight. However, when it comes to crop spraying, these planes operate very low and close to homes. At Jordan Air Inc., safety is our top priority—not only for the pilot but also for the people on the ground. Here are some important safety reminders to keep in mind when you see a crop plane flying: - The Plane Flies Very Low! The pilot must stay focused on the task at hand to carry out their job as safely as possible. Please allow them to concentrate without distractions. - Be Aware of Your Surroundings. When the plane is spraying fields, be mindful of your location, as some areas may be dangerous. - Refrain from Taking Close-Up Pictures. Stay at least half a mile away on the upwind side while the plane is working. - Stay Indoors.

Please remain inside your home, vehicle, or barn while the airplane is operating. The work usually takes less than 15 minutes. Thank you for helping Jordan Air Inc. maintain a safe environment! If you need to get in touch with them you can reach their office at 580-822-3477
