Hennessey Woman Fighting Hard After Medical Emergency

Community rallies around Susan McCartney and family during difficult time

Susan McCartney, 42, daughter of Sally McCartney, longtime owner of Keith & Sally's Café in Hennessey, is currently in intensive care following a series of serious health events that began earlier this year.

Back in February, Susan began having blurry vision, prompting a visit to a retina specialist. What started as a concern about her eyesight quickly unraveled into a complex medical diagnosis. Doctors found a detached retina, dangerously high eye pressure, and discovered that Susan had been unknowingly living with uncontrolled diabetes and high blood pressure.

She underwent several eye procedures in the weeks that followed, including a retina re-attachment, a pressure-relieving shunt, laser treatments, and injections. Though her vision began to improve, Susan was still in the healing process when she made the decision to return to work at the café on Tuesday, April 1.

Just two days later, tragedy struck.

After closing the café on Thursday evening, Susan stepped outside ahead of her mother. Moments later, Sally found her collapsed on the ground, gasping for air. Susan had gone into cardiac arrest. Sally called 911 and began CPR until emergency responders arrived. Susan's heart stopped and had to be shocked twice before stabilizing.

Doctors later discovered 90 percent blockage in a main artery and inserted a stent. Though there are other areas of blockage, those will be addressed later. To make matters worse, Susan sustained a scratched cornea from gravel during the fall.

By Friday night, she was transferred from Enid to St. Anthony's in Oklahoma City due to complications including seizures and dangerously low blood pressure. She spent several days on a ventilator in the ICU. There have been moments of hope along the way. On Sunday, April 13, Susan responded to some commands from a neurologist. The following day, she had limited responses, likely due to exhaustion from tests and treatments. Her care team attempted to ease her off the ventilator several times, and finally succeeded in removing it on Monday, April 14. She was placed on oxygen, which she tolerated for several days until it was also removed.

Susan was briefly moved out of the ICU on Tuesday, but had to be rushed back the next day due to several setbacks, including pneumonia. She continues to struggle with regulating her blood pressure, heart rate, and blood sugar, creating a roller coaster of complications. A planned surgery to place a defibrillator has been delayed multiple times due to her condition.

Still, signs of progress remain. Susan is slowly becoming more responsive, opening her eyes more frequently, slightly moving her head, and attempting to mouth words. On Saturday, April 19, she even managed to make a few audible sounds in an effort to talk to Sally.

"It's been one day at a time," Sally shared. "But we're incredibly thankful for everyone who's reached out, prayed, and supported us through this. The love we've felt from this community is overwhelming."

Special thanks go out to the first responders, including Dustin Monroe and Brandon Scott, who acted quickly and helped save Susan's life in those critical first moments. A fund has been set up under the CAT Team at Community State Bank 525 N. Main Street P.O. Box 367, Hennessey, OK 73742 405-853-6880 to help Susan's family with medical expenses. Those wishing to donate can contact CSB directly and ask to contribute to the Susan McCartney fund or note Susan McCartney in the memo.

Sally and the family continue to ask for prayers, support, and patience as Susan continues her fight.

Phillip Lee Spencer Obituary

Phillip Lee Spencer of Hennessey, Oklahoma, graduated to heaven on April 15, 2025, after almost a year-and-a-half-long battle with melanoma cancer. He passed away in his home in Norman, Oklahoma, surrounded by his family.

Phillip was born March 17, 1966, in Hennessey, Oklahoma, to Marilyn and Bill Spencer.

Phillip graduated from Hennessey High School in 1984, and attended the University of Oklahoma, where he earned his bachelor's in meteorology. He worked as a meteorologist while he continued his education and eventually earned his doctoral degree in meteorology from Pennsylvania State University in 2002. Phillip moved to Norman, Oklahoma, where he married Heather Lynn Bailey on November 24, 2001, and they had three children together: Sydney, Kate, and Luke. His first love was Jesus Christ and spreading the joy of the Lord and the gospel to all those he encountered. He was an avid football fan and never missed an OU or Miami Dolphins football game. Most of all, he enjoyed attending his daughter's volleyball matches and his son's baseball tournaments.

Phillip is survived by his beloved wife of 23 years, Heather; two daughters, Sydney and Kate; one son, Luke; his mother, Marilyn Spencer; one sister, Kim Hallmark and her husband Wayne; and one brother, John Spencer, and his wife, Teresa. He was preceded in death by his father, Bill Spencer.

Phillip accepted Jesus Christ as his Lord and Savior in his adolescence and served Him faithfully every day of his life. Through every triumph and tribulation, he praised the Lord and brought great glory to his name. He will be greatly missed and forever loved.

A private Celebration of Phillip's Life will be held at a later date.

Online condolences may be shared at www.havenbrookfuneralhome.com.

QUILT SOUP BUCKET EXCHANGE

Cozy Quilt Barn held a special event called the Quilt Soup Bucket Exchange. This brought the community together in a heartfelt and creative way. To participate, customers donated at least $30 worth of non-perishable food items. Once enrolled, each quilter filled a bucket with their favorite fabrics and returned it to Cozy Quilt Barn, where the buckets were shuffled and given to someone else in the exchange.

The recipient of each bucket, referred to as the "Chef", took it home and used its contents to create handmade gifts. From tote bags and bowl cozies to table runners and quilts, each item was thoughtfully crafted with care. These creations were then brought back to Cozy Quilt Barn, to be unveiled at a birthday party celebration this past Saturday, April 19, where each Chef would finally meet the person for who they had made their gifts, their surprise "guest."

In addition to the exchange participants, several others also contributed donations, adding to the spirit of generosity that defined the event. Together, they made a meaningful impact, both through their giving and their stitching.

Turkey Hunt

by Bonny Flesher

April and May are bustling months for school children. Anyone who has raised children knows that you often find yourself running in circles. Proms, awards banquets, and graduations are just a few of the events that fill this time of year. Many chapters are coming to an end, and new journeys are beginning.

Saturday, April 12th, marked the start of many new adventures for my four-year-old friend, Joe Grellner.

Joe is the son of Ginny and John Grellner from Okarche. I mentioned Joe in a previous story about the chuckwagon gathering. Although Joe's mom had said he was a chatterbox at home, on that particular day, he was a man of few words. Well, that quiet demeanor was about to change.

April 12th was the opening day of turkey season. Joe had been practicing with his .410 shotgun. He loves to hunt, fish, and play golf. This Saturday, his practice shooting was about to pay off. In the early hours of the morning, Joe, his dad John, and their family friend Kyle set up a turkey decoy. They had the gun in place on its stand and then they waited. As the turkey approached the decoy, BOOM! Joe pulled the trigger and shot his first turkey. Then the celebration began. Joe had worked up an appetite, so the celebration continued at the Sunrise Cafe in Kingfisher. The cafe was bustling with many early morning hunters. Joe had an audience to share his adventure with, and he didn't hold back.

This story takes me back to my own hunting adventures with my dad. Daddy didn't hunt turkeys; he was an avid quail hunter. He never took me with a group, but I'd get to go afterwards. I had to stand right behind Daddy, placing my hands in his back pockets. He always knew where I was. My dad spent summers training his bird dogs to hold point and retrieve quail. I can still hear him saying "Biiirrrd" in a low, calm voice as he sat for hours in our backyard, casting quail feathers attached to a fishing pole. He would drag them across the yard, watching his dog follow and hold point.

My mom once gave me some advice about hunting. She told me never to learn to clean quail or fish. I never saw her take part in the cleaning process, but she could cook up whatever game was brought home. My four-year-old buddy is just beginning to create those kinds of memories. Next on his list is t-ball, which to me is better than Saturday morning cartoons. In the adventures to come, he will pass a mount of turkey feathers on his wall. He will probably have his tongue stuck out, which he is known to do when concentrating, and tell his story of shooting his first turkey. Good job, Joe!

CIMARRON ELECTRIC LINEWORKERS GET HONORED

More than 50 lineworkers from electric utilities across Oklahoma were honored at the State Capitol on April 17 in celebration of National Lineworker Appreciation Day. Representing electric cooperatives, OG&E, PSO, the Oklahoma Municipal Power Authority, and the Grand River Dam Authority (GRDA), the lineworkers were recognized for their dedication to powering the state's homes and businesses.

In a bipartisan show of gratitude, Senator Grant Green and Representative Mike Dobrinski introduced a resolution declaring April 18, 2025, as National Thank a Lineworker Day and National Lineworker Appreciation Day in Oklahoma. The resolution praised the service, skill, and courage of Oklahoma's lineworkers.

"These professionals are the backbone of our energy infrastructure," said Senator Green. "They brave the elements and work long hours to ensure we have reliable electricity every day." among those honored were cooperative lineworkers from across the state:

Canadian Valley Electric Cooperative (Seminole): Chris Speers, Patrick Daggs, Kaden Thomas
Central Rural Electric Cooperative (Stillwater): Michael Musil, Kyle Williams
Cimarron Electric Cooperative (Kingfisher): Reid Trout, Jack Taylor
Rural Electric Cooperative (Lindsay): Denny Hortsman, Keith Hailey
Oklahoma Association of Electric Cooperatives (Oklahoma City): Justin Marsh

During the event, lineworkers met with legislators from their home districts, sharing their experiences and highlighting the importance of investing in safe, reliable infrastructure. Nicki Fuller, General Manager and CEO of the Oklahoma Association of Electric Cooperatives, praised the honorees:

"We applaud the men and women who serve as lineworkers for Oklahoma's electric cooperatives and all other electric utilities in our great state. Their dedication to keeping our lights on is unmatched. We commend them for their extraordinary service."

National Lineworker Appreciation Day serves as a reminder of the essential work lineworkers perform, often behind the scenes and under challenging conditions, to keep communities connected.

RAIN? COLD? PFFT. NOT EVEN CLOSE TO STOPPING HENNESSEY

Bull Foot Park turned into Hop-topia on Saturday, as the Lion's Club Hennessey Easter Festival powered through the chilly drizzle with unstoppable small-town spirit. Quick Pump kicked things off with the "Running with My Peeps" fun run (because nothing says Easter like cardio in the cold). By noon sharp, kids and parents bundled up and hit the field for the great egg hunt, umbrellas in one hand, baskets in the other. And the prizes? We're talking candy, bikes, baskets, and yes... an actual Xbox.

Big thanks to the Hennessey Lion's Club for organizing the madness, And hats off (or rain hoods up) to the Police Department, Fire Department, Town employees, Hennessey United, Eagle Mart, Quick Pump Services, the Powder and Strings Club, Farm Bureau, 132 Bible Church, The Reserve Angels, and every generous soul who donated or braved the elements to help out.
