HENNESSEY CLIPPER BUILDING UNDERGOING RENOVATION

The former Hennessey Clipper building at 117 S. Main Street is getting a new lease on life. On Wednesday, April 2, the historic newspaper office was sold at auction to Cory Shuman of Utah.

Renovation work is already underway, with Jeremy Beaman of 7B Construction leading the efforts to prepare the space for a future tenant. As of Friday, the building's interior has been completely gutted and cleared in preparation for the remodel.

Stay tuned for more updates as this Main Street landmark begins a new chapter. Photos by AAH Jack Quirk

Welcome Father John Herrera

AAH, Shelley Muzny

The parish of Saint Joseph of Hennessey and Saint Joseph of Bison, along with Our Lady of Fatima Shrine, warmly welcomes Father John Herrera. Father John comes to Hennessey from St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Guymon, OK. Originally raised in Norman, OK, he is the eldest of six children. His parents were raised Catholic, but during his childhood, Father John participated in a variety of Christian denominations before returning to the Catholic Church with his family when he was around 9 or 10 years old. It could be said that he had a semi-Protestant upbringing.

God called him to become a priest in 2011, and Father John began his seminary studies in 2012. He was ordained as a Catholic priest in 2019. Prior to his assignment in Guymon, Father John served at St. Francis and St. Gregory in Enid, OK, from 2019 to 2023. He expresses that these years have been the best of his life, and he truly loves being a priest.

Father Ed Menasco, the former pastor of Hennessey, was also Father John's home parish pastor at Saint Joseph in Norman. Father Ed supported Father John throughout his seminary journey and remains a close friend. Father John is grateful for Father Ed's guidance and states, "It's a privilege to follow him here in Hennessey and Bison."

Father John's childhood parish was St. Joseph, so it feels like a full-circle moment for him to be at St. Joseph in Hennessey and St. Joseph in Bison. He has a welcoming smile and spirit that radiate kindness. Father John is truly a blessing to everyone fortunate enough to know him. His laughter, approachability, and relatability make him an invaluable asset to the Hennessey community.

Welcome, Father John Herrera! We are delighted to have you here, and you are indeed a blessing to us all.

WATER TOWER MAINTENANCE
TEMPORARILY AFFECTS PRESSURE

The Hennessey Water Department began cleaning the town’s two water towers last week, which resulted in temporary low water pressure for some residents.

Crews started with the north tower before moving to the Main Street tower on Thursday, July 24. Alyssa Kubat, Hennessey Public Works Director, explained that the department worked to maintain water pressure while each tower was drained and cleaned.

The maintenance project is expected to be completed by Wednesday, July 30.

THE PERFECT SHOT!

Back in the 1970s, basketball was a significant event in Kingfisher County. People would fill local gyms to watch their favorite teams compete on the court. Most games were recorded, allowing fans to relive the action later. One memorable game involved Hennessey during the district playoffs, which went into four overtimes. For years, the players believed that the video of that remarkable game was lost. Recently, after one of the players lost her mother, several teammates gathered to help her sift through years of memorabilia. They came across a reel labeled “4 overtimes.” The discovery brought forth screams and tears of joy as they celebrated a moment from their high school careers that they thought had been lost forever.

Fast forward to the 1990s at Kingfisher High School, where Levi Ellyson, the son of Jimmy and Glenda Ellyson, was a sophomore. Like many young men, Levi struggled academically. He enrolled in a photography class taught by Dr. Johnson. Levi began helping his underclassmen in a multimedia class and spent his time at sporting events capturing memories, later working in the darkroom to develop the photos. After high school, he pursued photography further at the OSU Institute of Technology in Okmulgee, Oklahoma. Upon graduating, Levi worked for Blunk Studios, traveling across the state to photograph students. He built an impressive resume and portfolio.

After several months, Levi decided to make a big move to Las Vegas, where he lived with family to advance his photography career. In 2011, he established 501 Studios. Levi shared stories about working with celebrities like Clint Eastwood and how he refined his photo shoots for commercial businesses. Throughout our conversation, he emphasized the importance of his team, attributing his ability to capture perfect shots to their collaboration. He recounted thrilling experiences, including hanging out of helicopters and C-130 planes, which reminded me of a scene from a Mission Impossible movie with Tom Cruise.

I asked Levi what advice he would give to the next generation of photographers. He stressed the importance of education and explained that fine-tuning people skills is equally vital. He mentioned the need to direct subjects and take control of the shoot while also ensuring that everyone involved has fun, as this enjoyment will shine through in the final work. Although Levi and his team have received numerous awards, he particularly noted winning Best Architectural Photography in Nevada for four consecutive years. We discussed how photography has evolved from spending hours in a darkroom to using small drones today.

I also reached out to Levi’s mentor, Dr. Johnson, at Kingfisher High School for a comment. He responded that despite facing challenges, Levi worked diligently to overcome obstacles and honed his skills through advanced training, leading him to become the professional photographer he is today.

You may spot the next generation of photographers from Dr. Johnson’s class throughout the school year. Their photos could become treasured artifacts, placed in a time capsule to be discovered and appreciated many years from now. For someone, these images will serve as cherished memories of fleeting moments in time. I’d like to thank Levi for our insightful phone conversation and wish him continued success in his team’s pursuit of the perfect shot!

Where are they now?

Cindy Blakley Pribil

by AAH Shelley Muzny

Cindy Blakley Pribil was raised in Hennessey, Oklahoma, by her parents, Mickey and Kay Blakley. She has a sister, Tanya (Blakley) Cameron. Cindy graduated from Hennessey High School in 1985 and then attended Oklahoma State University, where she earned a degree in Animal Science.

After college, Cindy worked at Ace Land & Cattle in Skiatook, Oklahoma, for three years. She then moved back home and took a job at PIC for two years. In 1995, Cindy became the Purebred Beef Manager at Oklahoma State University, a position she held until late 2004 when she returned to the family farm.

In 1996, Cindy married Roger Pribil. This past June, they celebrated 29 years of happy marriage. Roger, a 1983 graduate of Hennessey High School, also graduated from Oklahoma State University with a degree in Engineering Technology. Together with his nephew, Trent Pribil, Roger manages their family farms, where they raise cattle.

Cindy and Roger live on the property where her grandmother, Grace Blakley, once lived and where her father grew up. They raise both registered Hereford cattle and commercial cattle, participating in an annual bull sale in February and a female sale in November. Cattle farming runs in the family, as Cindy's sister and her family are also involved in raising cattle, selling Hereford and a few Angus bulls through private treaty.

Farming and ranching is a full-time commitment for the Pribils, but in their spare time, they enjoy fishing in the mountains or taking their boat out on the lake. They have two children: Elizabeth (Pribil) Caughlin, 24, who recently got married and earned her master's degree in Food Science from Oklahoma State University, and Ryan Pribil, 22, who will be a senior at Oklahoma State University this fall. They love attending OSU football and baseball games, and when their children can join them, it always makes for a great time.

SIEGMANN TAKES THE WIN AT ENID SPEEDWAY!

by AAH Shelley Muzny

Enid Speedway was roaring with excitement on Saturday, July 26, 2025, as fans packed the stands for a thrilling night of dirt track racing. Among the tire smoke and roaring engines, one driver stood out: Hennessey's own Austin Siegmann.

Driving in the Sport Modified class, Austin powered his way through the competition to take first place, bringing home a big win for the hometown crowd. Austin, the son of Ryan and Lori Siegmann, has been steadily making a name for himself on the racing circuit, and Saturday night's victory just added another trophy to the shelf.

From the green flag to the checkered, Austin ran a clean, aggressive race, holding his own and keeping fans on their feet. It was a proud moment for the Siegmann family and the entire Hennessey racing community.

Congratulations, Austin, on an outstanding race and a well-earned win! We can't wait to see what you do next!

COUNTY ROAD IMPROVEMENTS UNDER-WAY SOUTHEAST OF HENNESSEY

Kingfisher County District 2 crews were hard at work Thursday, July 24, near the intersection of E680 Road and N2900 Road, southeast of Hennessey, tackling a persistent problem: dust and rocks kicked up by passing traffic on white limestone roads.

County Commissioner Mike Sparks explained that the white limestone commonly used in the area creates a significant nuisance for nearby residents. "When trucks go by, they kick up a great deal of white dust and rocks," Sparks said. "Houses get completely dusted, and the yards end up full of rocks."

To address the issue, Sparks' crew is laying down milled asphalt in residential areas to help keep the dust under control. This asphalt, recycled from road resurfacing projects, is a cost-effective solution that offers better dust suppression than limestone.

"We're going the extra mile with this to make sure it lays down properly and stays smooth," said Sparks. After grading the surface, crews are applying water, compacting it with a vibrating roller, and then watering it again to ensure proper settling.

If you have any questions, you can call Commissioner Mike Sparks at 405-853-5113 or the shop at 405-853-4413
