DEVASTATING THANKSGIVING DAY FIRE

Just as most families were settling down for Thanksgiving dinner, one Hennessey family's life changed forever when their home burned to the ground.

Hennessey firefighters responded to a house fire at 6688 Alice St. in Ike's Acres, south of Hennessey on Thanksgiving morning at about 11:30 am. The home was fully engulfed when crews arrived and is considered a total loss.

Firefighters remained on scene until about 2 pm before returning to the station. Assisting agencies included the Kingfisher County Sheriff's Department and LiFE EMS.

Thankfully, no injuries were reported. However, the Vinton Johnson III family lost everything in this devastating fire. In response, the Hennessey CAT Team has established an account at CSB Bank in Hennessey to accept monetary donations.

Donations can be made at CSB Bank, 525 N. Main St., Hennessey, OK 73742. Please note "Johnson family" on your contribution.

For questions, contact Jimmy Berkenbile at (405) 853-5071.

To donate items, contact Gina at (405) 853-0507 or Trish at (405) 853-0618. Photo by AAH's Jack Quirk.

HENNESSEY VETERAN WAS HONORED AT OSU

Hennessey's own Jack Toney traded in his normal seat at veterans' events for front-row treatment in Stillwater this weekend. Toney was selected as OSU's "Veteran of the Day" for events on Friday and Saturday, where he received a personal tour of Oklahoma State University, a photo op with the Cowboy mascot, and special recognition as the guest of honor at the ball game.

Toney is a Vietnam veteran who served with the Army's legendary 1st Cavalry Division. During his tour, he was wounded three times in just six months, earning three Purple Hearts. That alone would have qualified him to come home early, but he chose to stay and finish his full tour with his unit. In that same intense stretch of combat, he was promoted from E-1 to E-6 and went on to receive two Bronze Star Medals, two Army Commendation Medals, and the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry with Silver Star. photos provided

MARY HARRISON: A Life Remembered, A Case Still Unsolved

Nearly fifty years ago, on a quiet winter morning northwest of Kingfisher, Oklahoma, the life of 63-year-old Mary Harrison was violently taken. On January 8, 1977, Mary, born Mary Hoshall, was found murdered in her rural home. The widow was known for her kindness and strength, and she had raised her children on the family farm after the early death of her husband. For two decades she served the community through her work with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service in Kingfisher, retiring just two years before her death.

Mary's daughter, Marjorie, lived with her at the time. Marjorie was well known throughout the county for boarding horses, her involvement in 4H, and for teaching many local children to ride. Those who spent time in their home remember it as a warm, welcoming place filled with the everyday sounds of farm life, friends, and horses.

Mary's murder was especially brutal, a crime investigators described as a rage killing. Over the years, serial killer Henry Lee Lucas falsely confessed to the crime, and charges were filed, but his confession was later debunked along with many others. The case was left without answers, and for nearly half a century it has remained cold.

Mary Harrison has not been forgotten.

Today, Oklahoma Cold Cases, Inc., a nonprofit dedicated to raising awareness of unsolved homicides, missing persons, and unidentified victim cases in Oklahoma, has selected Mary as their 2025 to 2026 Case of the Year. Their mission is simple but urgent: bring Mary's story back into the public eye and help find the truth before her case reaches its fiftieth year unsolved.

Working closely with the Kingfisher County Sheriff's Office, Oklahoma Cold Cases is gathering information, interviewing Mary's relatives, and seeking the status of evidence that may still be held by state investigators. Family members have shared stories, photographs, and memories, some joyful and some painful. The trauma from Mary's murder has rippled through generations, but so has the love they continue to carry for her.

Many people in Kingfisher still remember Mary and Marjorie. They remember the horses, the lessons, and the open door of their home. Oklahoma Cold Cases believes that somewhere, possibly in the community, someone may hold information that could help solve her case. Even the smallest detail could matter.

Their slogan, "silence is betrayal," reflects a truth Mary's family has lived with for decades: someone out there knows something.

As the case approaches its fiftieth year, Oklahoma Cold Cases and the Kingfisher County Sheriff's Office are asking the community to come forward with stories, memories, or information. Those who knew Mary or Marjorie, or who remember life on the Harrison farm, are encouraged to share what they know with the organization. If you want to include their Facebook page, which is where they share all of their cases and updates, it can be found at Oklahoma Cold Cases.

Mary Harrison was more than the way she died. She was a mother, a neighbor, a friend, and a woman who dedicated her life to her family and her community. Keeping her story alive is one step toward bringing justice to her and peace to those who still mourn her.

Letter from Hennessey Police Department Christian K. Solis, Chief of Police

To the Citizens of Hennessey,
As I mark my first year serving as your Chief of Police, I want to take a moment to express my deepest appreciation to this community. When I accepted this role, my goal was simple but important: to build, unify, and elevate the Hennessey Police Department so that our citizens could continue to feel proud of the agency that serves them. Over the past twelve months, the level of support, trust, and partnership you have shown has made that work not only possible, but meaningful.

This first year has brought tremendous progress, much driven by your encouragement and willingness to stand behind your police department. Together, we strengthened our rank structure, increased officer training, improved community outreach, expanded our reserve program, modernized equipment, and established a more unified department culture rooted in Community, Duty, and Integrity.

None of this was achieved alone. Our officers, reserves, town employees, local businesses, schools, and everyday citizens played a part in helping us grow. Every handshake, message, and word of support made an impact. You helped motivate a small but dedicated department to work harder, train more, and serve at a higher standard.

Most importantly, I want the people of Hennessey to know that your police department is committed to you. We will continue to build on this momentum, strengthening community relationships, increasing officer wellness and training, and working tirelessly to keep our town safe.

Thank you, Hennessey, for welcoming me into my new role, supporting this department, and believing in the direction we are headed. It is an honor to serve as your Chief of Police, and I look forward to continuing this mission with you in the years ahead.

With gratitude,
Christian K. Solis

GOLDEN EAGLES FIELD TRIP

October 15th was a truly special day for the Golden Eagles Senior Citizen Club of Hennessey as they took a memorable field trip to Oklahoma State University.

Dana Boutwell, with Choice Health at Home, led the group throughout the day they had the joy of exploring new technology and innovative resources designed to help seniors live more safely, comfortably, and independently in their own homes as they age. From smart home safety tools to everyday living aids, the experience offered an inspiring glimpse into the future of senior support.

Community support played a huge role in making the day possible. A big thank-you to Jimmy Berkebile for being the absolute best driver, navigating the roads like a pro. And many thanks to First Baptist Church of Hennessey for the generous loan of their bus. It truly takes a small village to move a bus full of golden-hearted Eagles, and this one showed up big.

One of the sweetest parts of the day was seeing the next generation's involvement in giving back. A very special shoutout to Remington, who has been volunteering in senior outreach since the age of 8. Watching her grow up with a heart for serving seniors continues to be one of life's greatest, proudest gifts.

THE JOURNEY OF JACKSONS OF KINGFISHER

For Casey Jackson, owner of Jacksons of Kingfisher Chevrolet GMC, the dealership is a family legacy rooted in hard work and Oklahoma grit. Casey grew up in Kingfisher, where his parents, Bruce and Linda Jackson, ran the County Chronicle and taught their kids the value of pitching in. When the paper was sold, Bruce stepped into the automotive world with encouragement from the late Mike Johnson, eventually purchasing Johnson's of Enid in 1996. That move was made possible when the family sold their cotton farm.

Casey Jackson owner of Jacksons of Kingfisher

Casey's path took a detour through theater and Los Angeles before family pulled him back home. He worked nearly every job in the dealership, gaining a ground-level understanding of the business.

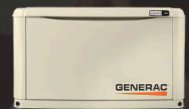

The Jacksons expanded again in 2018 by purchasing the Kingfisher dealership from the Dabinski family. Under Casey's leadership, it has become a regional standout, especially in fleet sales, shipping specialized vans nationwide.

Through industry changes and growth, Casey credits the people and community who shaped him. To this day, he sees the dealership as a blessing he intends to carry forward with integrity.
