JLEE CO. SEED EXPANDS HENNESSEY FACILITY TO MEET GROWING DEMAND FOR FOOD-GRADE MUNG BEANS

By AAH Jack Quirk

A major expansion is underway at JLEE Co. Seed in Hennessey as the locally owned company invests in new facilities and equipment to meet the rapidly growing demand for food-grade mung beans both in the United States and around the world.

Co-owners Tyrone and Lori Wilson purchased the facility in 2017, when the business primarily handled rye and mung beans. At the time, rye was the company's largest crop, while mung beans were shipped mainly to South Korea in relatively small volumes, although increased over the last several years.

"We were heavy in rye," Lori Wilson said. "But we started to see where the mung bean market was headed."

The Wilsons recognized that changes in international trade and increasing competition would eventually impact exports, prompting them to expand into domestic markets. That decision has paid off.

Today, demand for mung beans continues to grow worldwide, with buyers seeking the versatile crop for an expanding list of food products. Mung beans are commonly used for sprouts, but they are also processed into flour, protein powders, soups, desserts, beverages and plant-based meat alternatives. Companies producing egg substitutes and meat-free products also rely on mung beans as an ingredient. The company eventually made the decision to discontinue rye production altogether and focus entirely on mung beans.

Tyrone Wilson Co-Owner of JLEE Co.

According to JLEE Co., the company holds exclusive rights to the Kimlee variety of mung bean, a fast-growing bean with strong drought tolerance and adaptability to Oklahoma conditions. The company says the variety has become an important additional source of income for area farmers during years when traditional wheat markets have been volatile.

The current expansion is designed to position the company for even more growth.

The most noticeable addition is a new food-grade processing wing being constructed on

"We're completely out of rye now," Wilson said.

One advantage for Oklahoma farmers is the crop's short growing season. Some varieties of Mung beans mature in approximately 75 days, allowing growers to harvest the crop and still plant wheat or rye afterward.

HENNESSEY 522 AMBULANCE BOARD ANNOUNCED

The members of the newly formed Hennessey 522 Ambulance District Board were announced Monday morning during the regular Kingfisher County Commissioners meeting.

District 2 County Commissioner Mike Sparks announced the initial five-member board, which includes Dr. David Matousek, Levi Copeland, Shelley Muzny, Ray Shimanek, and Angel Molina.

During the meeting, it was determined that Molina resides outside the Hennessey School District, making him ineligible to serve on the board. Sparks said he is currently seeking a qualified replacement to fill the vacancy.

The Hennessey 522 Ambulance District was approved by voters earlier this year to provide a dedicated funding source for local emergency medical services.

An Oklahoma 522 Ambulance District Board is responsible for overseeing the funding and delivery of emergency medical services within the district. The governing boards were established under State Question 522, approved by Oklahoma voters in 1976, and members are appointed by the county commissioners.

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW KINGFISHER COUNTY DISTRICT 2 SHOP AND OFFICE

Kingfisher County officials, local leaders, contractors and community members gathered Monday afternoon to celebrate the groundbreaking for the new Kingfisher County District 2 shop and office at 120 S. Arapaho Street in Hennessey.

The new facility will replace the district's aging shop and provide county road crews with a modern workspace designed to better serve residents throughout District 2.

District 2 County Commissioner Mike Sparks welcomed those in attendance, recognizing state and local officials, county employees, contractors and community supporters who came to celebrate the milestone.

Among those attending were State Senator Chuck Hall, State Representative Mike Dobrinski, Hennessey Mayor Randy Bohnstedt, Town Administrator Tiffany Rowen, Kingfisher County Sheriff Aaron Pitts, Commissioners Jeff Moss and Anthony Schwarz, along with numerous county officials, city staff and local contractors.

Sparks said he has envisioned the project for more than a year and is excited to finally see construction begin.

"I've already seen it built in my head," Sparks said. "Now we get to build it for real."

The new building will measure approximately 70 by 120 feet and will feature three offices and two drive-through work bays, with bays on the north and south sides. The updated facility is expected to improve daily operations while giving District 2 employees the space and equipment needed to efficiently maintain county roads and infrastructure.

Sparks noted that the current District 2 shop has served the county for decades and is so old that its original construction date is difficult to determine. "I think we're due for an update," he said. The commissioner emphasized that local contractors will be used whenever possible, keeping county tax dollars in the community while supporting area businesses.

Following the remarks, officials and District 2 employees grabbed ceremonial shovels and officially broke ground, marking the beginning of construction. Once completed, the new shop and office will replace one of the county's oldest service facilities and serve as the headquarters for District 2 road operations.

the south side of the facility. Once beans complete the initial cleaning process, they will move into the enclosed, certified food-grade area where they can be processed under strict food safety standards.

"The drum just kept beating," Wilson explained. "Customers kept asking if we were food certified. This new addition allows us to answer yes."

The certified processing area will help JLEE Co. serve food manufacturers that require higher food safety standards while opening additional domestic and international markets.

The project also includes four new storage silos, upgraded conveying equipment, improved product separation, and a new unloading station that will allow two trucks to unload quickly during harvest.

"We're trying to get growers in and out faster," Wilson said. "As our volume increases, we have to be ready."

Harvest season typically begins in early August and continues into late October or early November. While harvest only lasts a few months, the cleaning and shipping operation continues throughout the winter and into the spring.

The company currently works with growers from Fort Cobb north to the Kansas border, with the growing region continuing to expand.

JLEE Co. currently employs six full-time workers and expects to add seasonal employees during harvest as production continues to increase.

The Wilsons say the investment represents more than simply adding equipment.

"We're excited to upscale our facility to meet food safety standards, allowing additional growth that has not been possible in the past," the company said in a written statement. "This build-out is opening up new possibilities and new growth."

As construction continues this summer, the improvements are expected to strengthen Hennessey's role in an expanding agricultural market while creating new opportunities for area farmers and supporting continued local job growth.

JUNE'S ALL ABOUT YOU FLOWERS

Whoever said the flowers had to have petals?

Our June recipient happens to love to bake, so we rose to the occasion and surprised her with a bowl of baking essentials.

All About Hennessey is delighted to congratulate Jen Lechtenberg, our June All About YOU "Flour" recipient for Hennessey!

Jen was nominated by Jennifer Ullery, who shared how grateful she is for Jen's willingness to always go the extra mile for the youth in our community. Whether she's volunteering through the PTO, serving at church, or helping at the library, Jen is always ready to step in wherever she's needed.

From lending a helping hand to making sure events have enough volunteers, Jen quietly makes a difference in countless ways. Her servant's heart and dedication help create opportunities and memories for so many local kids and families.

Jen, thank you for the time, energy, and kindness you pour into Hennessey. Your commitment to serving others does not go unnoticed, and we're proud to recognize you as June's All About YOU Flowers recipient.

Thank you for making our community a better place.

Keep an eye out for your chance to nominate someone special in your life, because there's always another hometown hero waiting to be celebrated.

AN ENORMOUS SUCCESS!

By AAH Jack Quirk

Planning a community celebration is never easy, especially when it's a patriotic event celebrating America's 250th birthday. Months of planning went into Hennessey's Freedom Fest, and organizers had plenty of tough decisions to make, including the biggest one of all, what day to hold it.

Several factors led to the decision to celebrate on Thursday, July 2. Fireworks contractors are in high demand on the Fourth of July, larger communities across the region host competing events that day, and many Hennessey families traditionally head out of town for the holiday weekend.

Not everyone agreed with the date. A few predicted the event would be a flop simply because it wasn't held on July 4. As it turns out... they couldn't have been more wrong.

By every measure, this was one of the largest community celebrations Hennessey has seen in years. From the time the festivities began until the final firework, the event was packed with families enjoying an evening of food, fun and hometown pride.

Vendor booths stayed busy all evening with long lines of people shopping, visiting and supporting local businesses.

The Hennessey Lions Club kept everyone well fed with free hot dogs, 4Ts Family Market handed out free watermelon, and Cimarron Electric helped everyone beat the heat by providing free bottled water.

The giant inflatable water attractions were an instant hit with the kids, and the hot dog eating contest drew a crowd that proved watching someone eat far too many hot dogs is apparently a true American pastime. (We'll have more on that contest in a separate story.)

Little cowboys and cowgirls enjoyed pony rides and the clowns were a hit. Liberty Lift's crane proudly displayed a giant American flag high above the event and The Hennessey Lions Club also lined Mitchell Road with American flags, creating a patriotic entrance to the celebration.

The evening concluded with a spectacular fireworks display choreographed to patriotic music, providing a fitting finale to an unforgettable night.

Events like this don't happen by accident. They require months of planning, dozens of volunteers and a community willing to come together.

A big thank you goes to the Town of Hennessey, Shelley Burch, the many volunteers, sponsors, vendors and everyone who helped make this year's Freedom Fest such an overwhelming success.

If this year's celebration is any indication, Hennessey has started a new Independence Day tradition that's here to stay. Photos by AAH Angie Bruner and Jack Quirk.

THE FIRST ANNUAL FREEDOM FEST PARADE!

By AAH Jack Quirk

Being the first to try anything can be a little nerve-racking. When Freedom Fest organizer Shelley Burch first mentioned having a golf cart parade, there were plenty of questions. I'll admit, I figured we'd be lucky to round up five golf carts.

Turns out, I was very, very wrong.

Apparently, Hennessey has a secret fleet of decorated golf carts just waiting for an excuse to hit the streets!

On July 2nd, the First Annual Freedom Fest Parade was a huge success, with colorful carts, smiling families, and a crowd I'm estimating at more than 1,000 people lining the route. I visited with several spectators who had traveled from neighboring communities just to enjoy the festivities.

Another first was the parade route itself. Rather than traveling down Main Street, as Hennessey parades traditionally have, organizers routed the parade along Mitchell Road in front of the schools. The new route placed spectators right in the heart of the Freedom Fest activities, allowing families to easily enjoy the parade before walking over to the food, games, vendors, and evening entertainment.

If this year's parade is any indication, it's safe to say a new Hennessey tradition has been born.

And don't put those decorations away just yet. Shelley is already making plans to make next year's parade even bigger and better. At this rate, we may have to start registering golf carts before they outnumber the cars in town! Photos by AAH Angie Bruner and Amy Townsend.

DUCKS FOR THE WIN!

Talk about making a splash! The Lady Eagles Basketball Boosters' Duck Race Fundraiser was a quacking success.

Thanks to the incredible support of the community, on July 2, 1,040 ducks found their way into the race, making this year's fundraiser one of the biggest yet.

Congratulations to our winners!

1st Place: Amy Huntsberger

2nd Place: Freddie Caulk

3rd Place: Ginger Cox

In an extra show of community spirit, Amy Huntsberger and Freddie Caulk generously donated their prize money back to the Lady Eagles Basketball Boosters. Their kindness will go even further in supporting the team.

The funds raised will help provide new opportunities and equipment for the Lady Eagles throughout the upcoming season. The boosters have already supported the team during summer activities, and plans are underway to purchase new team bags, shooting shirts, and a fun Media Day experience complete with a professional photographer, creative backdrops, and the always-popular fire and smoke photo effects.

A huge thank you goes out to everyone who bought a duck, came out to cheer, volunteered their time, and supported the fundraiser. Your generosity is helping the Lady Eagles continue to grow both on and off the court.

If you missed the Duck Race this year, don't worry. The boosters are already looking forward to making next year's event even bigger, better, and yes... just a little more ducky. Photo by AAH Angie Bruner

MEET THE HENNESSEY FIREFIGHTERS

Each week, the Hennessey POST will feature a member of the Hennessey Fire Department, sharing their stories, what inspired them to join the fire service, and some of the accomplishments and experiences they've had along the way.

Lieutenant Tyson Copeland

Some people become firefighters because they love the excitement. For Hennessey Fire Department Lieutenant Tyson Copeland, that may have been what first caught his attention, but it quickly became something much more meaningful.

A lifelong Hennessey resident, Tyson, 39, joined the Hennessey Fire Department in October 2011. At the time, he admits he had always enjoyed seeing a good fire and figured it would be fun to help put them out. But after joining the department, his perspective changed.

"I learned there's much more than just fighting fires," Tyson said. "It became more of a passion to help those in need."

Today, Tyson serves as a lieutenant with the department while also owning Legacy Lawn & Pest Solutions. Whether he's responding to emergencies or running his business, serving his community has become a way of life.

When asked what he enjoys most about being a firefighter, Tyson doesn't hesitate.

"The brotherhood," he said.

Like many volunteer firefighters, balancing work, family, and emergency calls is part of the job. When he's not wearing bunker gear, Tyson spends his time chasing his three kids from gyms to ballfields, cheering them on at their activities.

Over the years, Tyson has responded to countless emergencies, making it difficult to choose just one that stands out. Instead, it's the opportunity to help neighbors on what may be the worst day of their lives that continues to motivate him.

His message to the community is simple but heartfelt:

"God bless this town."
