FALL BACK: WHY ARE WE STILL CHANGING THE CLOCKS?

If you thought the twice-a-year clock change was a thing of the past, you're not alone. But Oklahomans will still turn their clocks back one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 1.

Oklahoma passed a law in 2024 to adopt permanent daylight saving time, but it only takes effect if Congress changes federal law first. Under current rules, states can choose year-round standard time, but they can't keep daylight saving time all year on their own.

Congress is working on it. The U.S. House passed the Sunshine Protection Act on July 14, but the bill is still pending in the Senate. Lawmakers are divided over whether to favor lighter evenings or avoid dark winter mornings, especially for kids heading to school. Until a federal law passes, the clock changes continue.

So before you go to bed Saturday night, set your clocks back. That means Halloween comes with an extra hour of sleep!

HENNESSEY GETS READY FOR TWO DAYS OF HALLOWEEN FUN

2025 Trick or Treater Sawyer Lough in her beautiful peacock costume

Costumes, candy and a few friendly frights are on the way as Hennessey prepares for Halloween activities Friday, October 30, and Saturday, October 31.

The fun begins Friday afternoon with trick-or-treating on Main Street from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Families can bring their little ghosts, superheroes and princesses downtown to collect treats and enjoy a Halloween outing together.

Hennessey Nursing and Rehab will also welcome trick-or-treaters Friday beginning at 3 p.m. Candy will be handed out until it runs out, so families planning a stop will want to arrive early.

The celebration continues Saturday with several opportunities to fill those candy buckets. Hennessey's town trick-or-treating will take place from dark until 9 p.m. October 31. Families are asked to visit only homes with their porch lights on, indicating they are welcoming trick-or-treaters.

For those who enjoy a little spookiness with their sweets, the Hennessey Haunted Library will be open Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m., adding another stop to the evening's Halloween rounds.

Local churches are joining the fun, too. Hennessey United Methodist Church will host its Trunk or Treat on Saturday, October 31, from 6 to 8 p.m. The Church of Christ will also hold a Trunk or Treat on Saturday.

With activities spread across two days, families have plenty of chances to show off their costumes and enjoy Halloween close to home. Get those candy buckets ready, keep an eye out for children along the streets and help make it a fun weekend for Hennessey's trick-or-treaters.

COME FOR THE CANDY, STAY FOR YOUR CLOSE-UP!

Calling all little monsters, superheroes, princesses and anyone who spent way too much time getting their costume just right! All About Hennessey is your official Halloween photo stop during Main Street Trick or Treating on Friday, October 30 from 3:00 - 4:30p.m. at 300 S. Main Street.

Stop by for some candy, strike a pose and let us capture your Halloween look. We'll post the photos on the All About Hennessey Facebook page so everyone can enjoy the town's spookiest, silliest and sweetest costumes.

Bring your best boo, your biggest grin or your most convincing monster face. Whether you're flying solo or traveling with a whole crew of creatures, we want to see you!

Those costumes deserve a little time in the spotlight. We'll have the camera and candy ready!

BREAKING MEWS! RESCUE OPERATION!

It was a tense situation Thursday night, October 22, as Hennessey Police, firefighters, local businesses, and concerned citizens came together for a daring rescue operation!

The emergency? A cat with a serious case of poor decision-making skills!

High in a tree at 211 E. 7th Street, just behind Love's, a faint cry for help could be heard. For several days, passersby had heard a cat meowing from somewhere high above. Apparently, Lucia the cat had climbed her way to the top of the tree without giving much thought to how she was going to get back down.

By Thursday evening, Lucia had apparently decided that tree climbing was NOT her calling.

Around 7:30 p.m., with darkness setting in and Lucia still refusing to come down, her owner called Kingfisher County Dispatch for help.

And boy, did help arrive!

Hennessey Police Reserve Officer Bryan Burch responded to assist with traffic control. Hennessey Firefighter Logan Macy arrived and called Chris with Legacy Crane Solutions, who showed up with a bucket truck.

Chris and his assistant Adrian quickly went to work setting up the truck. Adrian then made the trip high into the tree, where he successfully retrieved the stranded feline and brought her safely back to solid ground.

After several days of being stuck in a tree, Lucia was finally reunited with her very relieved owners, Anelisse and Max.

We have not been able to confirm whether Lucia learned anything from this experience, but we suspect her tree-climbing privileges may have been suspended indefinitely.

All kidding aside, a big thank-you to everyone who dropped what they were doing on a Thursday night to help a little cat in trouble. That's what small-town communities do!

And Lucia, next time, maybe just stay on the porch!

FALL FUN DRAWS FAMILIES TO THE LIBRARY

What do you get when you mix fall fun, nearly 100 kids and a cake walk? A pretty good Saturday at the Hennessey Public Library.

The Friends of the Library hosted its Fall Festival on October 24, welcoming children and their families to the library lawn for a free evening together. With games, hayrides, a petting zoo, a bounce house and a movie on the lineup, there was plenty to look forward to. But one activity stood out.

“The cake walk was a HIT!” Organizers shared.

The festival grew out of a tough decision. Last year, the Friends of the Library decided the Pumpkin Patch was no longer sustainable. It was hard to let it go, but the group still wanted to give families a reason to gather at the library and enjoy the season.

So they got to work on a different idea: a fall festival filled with games and activities for a fun, relaxed evening.

The goal went beyond keeping the kids busy. The Friends of the Library wanted to remind people that the library belongs to the whole community, and everyone is welcome.

“The FOL’s goal is to support our library in any way we can and to remind our community that our public library is here for everyone,” organizers shared. Photos by AAH Shelley Muzny

A Little More Elbow Room

By Amy Townsend

For years, finding a seat at Gail's Grill meant claiming one of the 14 stools around the counter. Now, that small place has doubled its seating, giving customers a little more elbow room.

Tammy Dobbs, who has operated the grill since 2017, had been thinking about the need for more space for quite some time. She had watched potential customers step inside, see every stool occupied and turn around to leave.

What they didn't always realize was that a seat might open up in just five minutes. For others, especially first-time visitors, the close quarters were enough to send them looking elsewhere. The answer was right next door.

Over Labor Day weekend, Tammy and her husband, Keith Dobbs, owner of Dobbs Construction, traded any thoughts of a beach getaway for hammers, paint and some long hours. Together, they expanded the grill into the adjoining space that housed Hardin Ignition until 2024. And for those who know the squeeze getting back to that corner stool, there's now a little more breathing room next door.

The new space also gave Tammy a chance to carry the grill's red, white and blue theme a little further. What started with the stripes on the original grill wall grew to include the stools, curtains, the windows and a matching branded wall that brings it all together.

The tables and chairs came from an auction, but they didn't go straight from the auction to the dining room. The Dobbses put plenty of work into them, adding burned-in designs and brands to give them the look they wanted and to honor America.

They put that same effort into the window trim that tie the two space together, cutting and finishing raw wood to make the frames just the right size. There's a lot of their handiwork in the new room, and a lot to be proud of after one very busy weekend.

For the regulars, the original 14 stools are still right where they've always been. But whether you're bringing a few extra people or just prefer a table, there's now another place to pull up a chair.

And they may not be finished yet. Tammy still has ideas brewing, so keep an eye on what's next for Gail's Grill. Reg Hours M - F 10:30am - 2:30pm. 210 S Main, 405-853-9947 Open for breakfast Saturday & Monday

Save the Boooobies!

We aren't even going to pretend that we will be able to keep up with all of the "awarenesses" each month or even every holiday..but we couldn't let October end without acknowledging that it's Breast Cancer

Awareness Month as our mom celebrates 8 years out from her own breast cancer diagnosis. We want to honor her by spreading awareness and encourage you to be vigilant as she attributes lot of her success to early detection using 3D mammography. {Thank God for advances in modern medicine, right?!}

As with most things ~ especially medical things ~ everyone's experience will be a little different so be sure and talk to your doctor about the best path for you. But, we'll give ya some basic info to kind of get ya started and hopefully ease some of the fear of the unknown.

Breast cancer screening is multi-layered.

Manual exams at your GYN appointment your doctor will do a manual exam. These used to call them "yearly appointments" but this is no longer true for some people's needs/insurance coverage Self-exam: This is very important as a first line in screening. You really should also do your own self exams monthly (and let's be honest, your partner is probably willing to lend a hand! winky face).

Baseline mammogram screening: starts at the age of 40, or 10 years younger than your first degree relative was at the age of diagnosis for genetic types of breast cancer. For example, if your mother was diagnosed with a genetic form of breast cancer at the age of 42, then you should start mammogram screenings at the age of 32. If no risk factors are present, then begin screening at the age of 40, but be sure to keep up with the "handsy exams".

Go forth, be brave, and get your boobs squeezed!

No tricks for your tatas!

Treat yo'self to peace of mind.. Get that mammogram!

Happy Halloween from the OKSeasonedSisters

Ashley Zielny's Story of Finding Hope After Breast Cancer

By Angela Bruner

Ashley Zielny knows what it feels like to hear the words “you have breast cancer” and be unable to take in anything said afterward. She also knows there is life beyond that moment, even when it’s hard to picture at first.

Her story began on an ordinary evening in 2015. Her youngest daughter, Piper, was still a toddler, and Ashley had climbed into the bathtub with her to rinse off after a long day. While washing, she felt a lump. It struck her as strange, but cancer wasn’t her first thought. She was in her 30s with no family history of the disease, and her life was already full: two daughters to raise, a full-time job, and a master’s degree in nursing she was working to finish.

Still, she had it checked. On a lunch break in Oklahoma City, she stopped by to see a friend who was a nurse practitioner. Her friend thought it might be hormonal, but encouraged her to make an appointment, and that one visit led to a mammogram, an ultrasound and a biopsy. Ashley understood medical care better than most, but she had never been the patient waiting to find out whether she had cancer.

In the middle of that uncertainty, her family made the trip to Arizona so she could walk across the stage for her master’s degree. Her dad drove while Ashley sat in the back seat, finishing paperwork that had to be turned in by a deadline so she could graduate. Cancer was barely on her mind. She was focused on the finish line, and the instructions she’d been given after the biopsy not to get in the water or submerge became a bit of background noise, “blah, blah, blah,” as she put it. For a little while, there was something to celebrate.

Back home in June, with her husband Jason busy with harvest, her aunt went with her to hear the results. The diagnosis was stage 2 breast cancer. “After that, I don’t remember what they said,” Ashley recalled. Almost immediately, the conversation turned to tests, an oncologist and a port for chemotherapy. “It happens so fast,” she said.

Soon after, a message arrived that Ashley now sees as more than a coincidence. Timberly Jech reached out and encouraged her to call a friend of hers who was a breast cancer survivor. Ashley did, and she remembers standing at a gas pump, sobbing into the phone about having cancer. On the other end was someone who had walked this road and knew exactly what to say. That friend guided her through the process, and Ashley believes their paths crossed for a reason. Today, that woman’s daughter and Ashley’s oldest daughter, Noelle, are in the same sorority house at OSU.

By July, chemotherapy had become part of her family’s routine. Ashley kept working full time, managing supplies for a health system, even as the side effects made familiar tasks harder. By the third day after a treatment, she often needed to sleep through most of the day. Her memory suffered too, a fog she called “chemo brain,” so she kept a pen and sticky notes in her car and let her dashboard fill with reminders, crossing each one off as she finished it. “I don’t know how I did it, but I did it,” she said.

What she remembers most, though, is not the exhaustion but the people. When her hair began to fall out, her friends gathered in her backyard wearing pink, took photographs and took turns shaving her head. It wasn’t an easy day, but she didn’t have to face it alone. That kind of love followed her through the long hours of treatment. Family and friends sat beside her during chemotherapy. Coworkers surprised her with gift baskets and a book filled with messages. Friends brought dinner. On one walk, she reached the elementary school and found a group of people waiting to join her.

At home, her husband quietly carried what she couldn’t. Before her surgery, he researched high-protein foods and prepared meals so she could follow her doctor’s instructions. Afterward, he changed the shower head to make bathing easier.

Ashley’s care included chemotherapy, 32 radiation treatments and a double mastectomy with reconstruction using her own tissue. By the end of 2016, she had come through the treatments and surgeries that followed her diagnosis. But recovery was more than reaching a final appointment. There were lasting physical changes and years of follow-up care, and there were small moments of humor, too. When her hair finally grew back, it came in black and curly, a surprise that took time to fade before it gradually returned to the color and texture she remembered.

Now, 10 years after completing her treatment, Ashley continues her follow-up care, and she makes plans. There are trips to take with her daughters, activities to attend and family memories still waiting to be made. “If there’s a chance to travel or go do something, I’m going to do it,” she said.

That is the future she wants others facing breast cancer to be able to imagine. Treatment can be hard, and the next step can feel overwhelming, but her story reaches well beyond the day of her diagnosis. It includes watching her daughters grow, traveling with the people she loves and savoring ordinary days she refuses to take for granted.

Looking back, Ashley has learned how much practical kindness matters. When asked what she would tell someone who wants to support a loved one with cancer, her answer was simple: “Just be there.” Someone who is used to handling everything may struggle to ask for help, and a meal, a hand with the house, a phone call or a seat beside them at an appointment can ease a burden they might never mention.

She also hopes her story will move others to pay attention to their own health. Because she had no family history, her diagnosis was unexpected, and getting that lump checked was the first step toward treatment. “Listen to your body,” she said. “And don’t miss your doctor’s appointments.”

This October, during Breast Cancer Awareness Month, let her story be the nudge you need. Schedule the appointment you’ve been putting off. Mention the change you noticed. And if someone you love is in the middle of treatment, show up.

As Ashley puts it, “Just enjoy life. Don’t miss out on those small opportunities because you won’t get them back.”

DOVER FIRE BENEFIT BRINGS OUT THE COMMUNITY!

There was no shortage of food, friendly faces, and conversation, as the annual dinner gave everyone a chance to get together, catch up with friends and neighbors, and enjoy some good old-fashioned small-town fellowship.

Good food, great company, and a good cause! The Dover Volunteer Fire Department fired up the grills and welcomed a hungry crowd for its annual benefit dinner Saturday, October 17.

The firehouse was filled with the smell of smoked hog, sizzling burgers, and hot dogs as folks from Dover and surrounding communities stopped by to enjoy a meal and show their support.

Of course, the real reason for the evening was to support the dedicated volunteer firefighters who answer the call whenever their community needs them.

HERITAGE FESTIVAL BRINGS THE WORLD TO HENNESSEY!

Who needs a passport when you can travel around the world without ever leaving Hennessey?

The Hennessey Early Childhood Center's annual Heritage Festival, held Thursday, October 22, brought a little bit of the world to our hometown with a colorful celebration of cultures, traditions, food, and fun!

Visitors had the opportunity to explore displays representing countries from around the globe. Each stop offered something different, from interesting facts and traditional crafts to delicious foods and a glimpse into how people live in other parts of the world.

There was no shortage of entertainment either! Kids enjoyed face painting, Maypole dancing, and plenty of hands-on activities throughout the festival.

One of the highlights was the cultural dance performances, with several groups showing off traditional dances while dressed in bright, colorful outfits.

The annual festival, sponsored by the Hennessey Early Childhood Center, is more than just a fun day. It's an opportunity for students and families to learn about different cultures, appreciate traditions, and discover that while we may come from different backgrounds, there's plenty that brings us together.

A little trip around the world, right here in Hennessey!

HENNESSEY v. CASHION October 23, 2026

By Eagle Voice

One yard away. The Hennessey Football Eagles found themselves one yard away from a road victory Friday night in Cashion. One yard away from a tie for first place in District 2AII-1 with two games to play. One yard away.

After trading QB touchdown runs in the first of what would be three overtimes, the Eagles Defense turned the Wildcats over on downs on the first possession of OT round two. Now – any score wins for the Eagles.

After a 5-yard Levi Ferrell run, followed by another for 4, the Eagles had the ball on the Wildcats 1 yard line, 3rd Down & Goal to Go. 2 plays to get one yard. One yard away. Then heartbreak. On 3rd and Goal from the 1, the Eagles had a false start, pushing them back 5. Then an interior hold on an exterior run that negated a game-winning touchdown. Back 10 more, then an incomplete pass and a missed 30-yard field goal. The Eagles then themselves turned the ball over on downs to begin the third overtime.

Now – any score wins for the Wildcats. Two plays later, Cashion QB Kellen Smith punches it in for the 1-yard touchdown run. Wildcats 34, Eagles 28.

200 words, and that's just the overtime. The 4 quarters of regulation were themselves packed with more drama than copy space, with 131 total plays from scrimmage, 734 yards of total offense, 37 first downs, and 99 yards in penalties between the two county rivals.

Eagles Senior Quarterback Levi Ferrell once again carried the load, accounting for 355 yards on the ground and through the air (35 carries for 138 yards; 16 of 26 for 217 passing). His 4 rushing touchdowns on the night gives him 30 in his career, and moves Ferrell to 6th all-time at HHS, past Jason Zielny (1992-95). The 4 rushing TDs also gives the senior 16 this season, joining Ivan Moreno (2011) and Dillon Joyce (2017) just outside the top-10 in that category. And, with 2,178 career passing yards, Levi is now 9th all-time, bumping Dustin Waalkins ('92-95).

After a two-game absence, Sophomore Brytan Gardner made his presence known leading the Eagles with 8 catches for a career-high 84 yards in his return, with 7 total tackles, 1 tackle for loss, and a pass breakup.

Beau Vinson added 4 receptions for 59 yards on offense, 6 tackles, 1 TFL, and 2 Pass Interceptions defensively for the Junior.

Freshman Nose Raiden Briley had another standout game, leading the team with 11 tackles (8 solos, 3 assists), and the Linebacker crew of Jayson Boehm, Brayson Brinson, and Jameson Ladwig combining for 20 total tackles in the game.

For a complete list of player's stats and awards, and the game box score, refer to MaxPreps.com: Hennessey Eagles Football.

With the loss, Hennessey (5-3, 4-1) moves to 3rd place in the district behind Cashion (5-3, 4-1), but the door is still wide open for a district championship with 1st place Community Christian (8-0, 5-0) coming to Eagle Stadium this Friday night, October 30th, for Fall Senior Night 2026. Kickoff scheduled for 7 pm. photo by AAH Shelley Muzny

HENNESSEY CROSS COUNTRY FINISHES STRONG AT STATE!

The Hennessey Eagles wrapped up their cross-country season at the State Championships, with five runners representing Hennessey and one bringing home All-State honors!

Julianne Matousek led the way with an impressive 6th-place finish and a time of 12:46! Her top-10 finish earned her ALL-STATE HONORS! What a way to finish the season!

HENNESSEY STATE RESULTS

Girls

Julianne Matousek: 6th place | 12:46

Miranda Ortega: 53rd place | 14:33

Boys

Asher Ward: 115th place | 21:29

Chris Rodriguez: 129th place | 22:28

Rogan Choate: 133rd place | 22:57

Making it to state is an accomplishment in itself, and these five Eagles earned their spot among Oklahoma's best runners.

Congratulations to Julianne on her All-State honors and to the entire Hennessey cross-country team on a great season! You've made your hometown proud! WAY TO GO, EAGLES!

INCIDENTS

HENNESSEY MAN ARRESTED AFTER SUSPICIOUS-PERSON CALL

According to police reports, Darrel Kincannon was arrested October 20 after officers responded around 6:45 p.m. to a report of a man behind a residence in the 500 block of North Meramac Street, holding a piece of wood and making moaning sounds.

Officers located Kincannon near Iowa Street and Mitchell Road and recognized him from previous law enforcement encounters, including multiple prior arrests.

Police reported that Kincannon appeared intoxicated and refused commands to drop the wood. After an officer removed it, Kincannon allegedly became combative. Officers took him to the ground and restrained him. Mercy EMS evaluated him and cleared him for incarceration.

Officers reported recovering a THC-related container, a syringe and a suspected marijuana blunt, which were secured for laboratory testing. Kincannon was transported to the Kingfisher County Jail and booked on allegations of public intoxication, resisting arrest, transporting a controlled dangerous substance within 2,000 feet of an educational institution, possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The reports do not establish whether formal charges were filed.

WE'RE HIRING: MULTIMEDIA JOURNALIST

The All About Network is looking for a Multimedia Journalist to help cover the Hennessey and Kingfisher communities.

This is a hands-on position for someone who enjoys meeting people, telling local stories, taking photos and video, and staying involved in what's happening in the community.

The job includes:

- Covering community events and public meetings
- Reporting breaking news
- Writing feature stories
- Taking photos and video
- Creating content for our newspapers, websites, and social media

No journalism degree is required, and we're willing to train the right person. You should have strong writing and communication skills, be comfortable talking with people, and be able to work independently and meet deadlines.

Applicants must be at least 21, have a valid driver's license and dependable vehicle,

Pay: $14 – $18 per hour, depending on experience.

and be available for some evenings, weekends, and daytime assignments.

Think you'd be a good fit? Send your resume, a brief introduction, and any writing, photography, or video samples to:
